

Corrections to published record

Lenexa Police Department, School Resource Unit · issued 25 July 2026

Two errors were found by an audit run after publication. Neither is corrected by quietly editing the original: the affected documents carry SHA-256 digests that are already published, and one sits inside a sealed extract, so changing those files would break a fingerprint a reader may already hold. The originals stand unaltered and this sheet is the correction — the same discipline a records unit uses, for the same reason. A record that can be silently amended is not a record.

Erratum 1 — statute number mislabelled in a source list

Affects: ARK Stewardship Brief, 3 pages, source list item 8. Severity: material for counsel.

WHERE	WHAT IT SAYS	WHAT IS CORRECT
Brief, page 3, sources item 8	Labelled K.S.A. 38-2309 , but the link resolves to the text of 38-2310 .	Both statutes are real and both are relevant. 38-2309 is at 038_023_0009 and 38-2310 at 038_023_0010 .

Nothing argued in the brief turns on which number is cited — both statutes bear on who may see a juvenile law-enforcement record and when. The label was still wrong, and counsel checking it would have found a mismatch. The generator now carries both statutes, separately linked.

Erratum 2 — the copyright instrument is cited to a private repository Affects: the sealed extract, and RECORD.md. Severity: high — the citation does not open.

Both documents cite the umbrella copyright instrument at github.com/EVEglyphDesign/umbrella-copyright-proof, which exists but is private. Any reader outside the organisation who follows it gets a 404. That is the worst kind of error in this particular argument: the case put to the department rests on rights being documented and checkable, and the document pointed at a door that does not open.

USE THIS INSTEAD — PUBLIC, AND IT OPENS

github.com/EVEglyphDesign/paix-parish-platform/blob/main/LICENSE-NOTICE.md

The licence notice states the terms in force: what may be read, quoted and cited freely; what is governed by the umbrella instrument; that a permissive licence on code does not strip the copyright footer from a document; and that design-founder credit to Donat Omer Thériault is irrevocable. It is enough to act on.

Whether the canonical instrument should itself be made public is the designer's decision and has not been made. Until it is, the notice above is the operative public statement of terms.

Supersession — Command Briefing reissued the same day

The Stewardship Brief and the sealed extract have not been reissued and their published digests are unchanged. Erratum 1 and Erratum 2 above are how those two are corrected.

Keep this sheet with the documents it corrects. Anyone auditing this material later should be able to see, without asking, what was wrong and what was done about it. Every document in this lane is listed with its fingerprint on the public record page.
